

Bus travel without a smartphone for children in Brighton & Hove

Your child does not need a smartphone to travel on the bus. Brighton & Hove buses can provide children with a physical bus pass that parents can top-up online. It is called a busID card and it is topped up using a The Key account.

There are two ways you can get a BusID card:

1. Download, print and post the completed application form along with a passport style photo and a copy of your child's ID
2. Go to the store to complete the application process. If your child attends with you, they can take the photograph there and then.

A copy of your child's birth certificate or passport will be accepted as identification. If you don't have either of these, please contact B&H buses, as other forms of ID may be accepted too.

Your BusID card will be registered with a My Key account using your email address. You can then pay for your child's bus tickets online. Please note that each BusID and associated My Key account will need a separate email address.
